Past Week

This week, I continued to maintain a balance between backend and frontend development, ensuring seamless collaboration between the two aspects of our project. Additionally, I took responsibility for managing our database, ensuring its smooth operation and optimal performance to support our platform's functionality effectively.

Next Week

Looking ahead to the upcoming week, I plan to maintain this multifaceted approach, dedicating time to both backend and frontend tasks while also continuing to oversee the database management. By staying actively involved in all aspects of our project, I aim to contribute to its progress and success.

Obstacles

I tried to get a group member to response to my text, about his duty AGAIN.
